

Purim

Purim commemorates the Jews' rescue from a threatened massacre in ancient Persia. The story of Purim is recounted in the Book of Esther, whose eponymous heroine plays the leading role in saving her people. Some modern readers see the story as containing insights relating to feminism and to the experience of living "in the closet" – with Esther initially choosing not to tell her husband, King Ahasuerus, that she is Jewish. Many have also noticed the absence of any reference to God in the story, though some believe that the Divine can be seen "pulling the strings" behind the scenes.

Purim is traditionally celebrated with wild abandon – costumes, parties, and carnivals – and with the giving of gifts to friends and the poor.
