

Yom Kippur

Yom Kippur is the Day of Atonement, on which Jews communally repent for misdeeds committed over the previous year. The holiday concludes a ten-day period of reflection, beginning with Rosh Hashanah, during which individuals traditionally seek to make amends with other people in their lives. On Yom Kippur, the focus is humanity's relationship with God.

Yom Kippur is a fast day on which those observing typically refrain from food, work and other behaviors that might distract from the process of repentance.

Synagogue services often last the full day, employing a unique and somber liturgy. Yom Kippur is not a sad day, as is sometimes thought, but rather a serious one involving deep contemplation.
